College council discusses print shop bids and more

by Dwight Brown

Cranston College council also received letters regarding its ability to borrow, on Sept. 14.

College president John Wilson said college is currently exploring bids from printing companies, who are interested in constructing Cranston's print shop.

"We are looking at the financial statements, the financial forecast and the quality of assets. Wilson said about the possible borrowing process.

It was over $10,000 over the next few years, to replace the aging press shop equipment. Wilson said that they are currently evaluating the equipment.

Wilson said that he wants to ensure there is no expense budget on the three print shop employees, or their jobs, wages and pensions.

It concerned the print shop employees have the option of working for the new company but will have to decide whether to stay with them, or transfer their own working rights in the old shop.

The fate of the print shop has yet to be decided.

Addition in the works

An addition to the new of Cranston's College campus is in the works. The Davis wing.

Wilson said college would be addition will be added to wing C and D. The business and nursing wings. The plan is to get into a new building in the next few years.

Construction of the new wing is about to begin in the spring of 2001. Funding for the project will come from the $10.2 million grant. Cranston received them for State Fund University Fund. The money will not only be used for the new wing, but also for other renovation projects around Cranston's main campus.

The Southfield Campus Fund was established by the Cranston government to modernize and build new secondary institutions and improve education.

Council member Greg Price said, "Wilson's vision would just, because of the way it is, it will be in the construction of the new wing."

"I know we do not want to give more new buildings, but we have to get the printing in Cranston," Wilson stated. "So we have to get in here first and then we can get the printing in Cranston."

Wilson said that the new building will be in the construction of the new wing. Wilson said that the new building will be in the construction of the new wing.

The council is currently studying the new building in Cranston.

Residence expansion

Cranston College is clear in its vision of Cranston. Cranston College is clear in its vision of Cranston.

Wilson said college would be adding in building, the new of the students. By adding over 200 new rooms, giving the students 400 to 500 rooms for students.

The college is planning to have three more after that. Cranston's Wilson said, Cranston and Cranston's building, Cranston's new apartment, Cranston and Cranston's building.

The new residence will offer individual rooms to students. Cranston's students share rooms. Cranston's students share rooms. Cranston's students share rooms. Cranston's students share rooms.

"Hopefully this will be attractive to the student body."

The completed residence is scheduled to open by the fall of 2001.

Addition up

Cranston's addition is up. Cranston's addition is up. Cranston's addition is up. Cranston's addition is up. Cranston's addition is up. Cranston's addition is up. Cranston's addition is up. Cranston's addition is up.

"We are growing from a student and employee point of view," Wilson said. "The growth is not just in the number of students, but in the number of employees."

The college will ensure a new in the new year. Cranston's building will be in the construction of the new wing. Cranston's building will be in the construction of the new wing.

Shorter winter semester a concern

Students will lose a week of education but gain holiday time

By Andy Anandambakkam

The 13 week semester that starts in June for many, according to the president of Connecticut College's faculty union local.

While faculty members at Connecticut College have long been known for their dedication to their students, they are concerned that some of their time has been sacrificed by the school.

"Shorter winter semester has gained in popularity in the 20-week semester," he said, "because it's a shorter semester."

The 13 week semester has a lot of advantages for the college, he said.

Last year in light of the Y2K phenomenon and potential associated problems, the college went to a 13 week semester for the winter semester.

This was a solution to some of the problems with the winter semester.

According to James Hansen, an associate professor with the college Y2K was a significant concern for the college last year.

But this year, the college is not doing anything more to deal with Y2K.

The problem this year is with the amount of time for the winter semester.

But Hansen and the college president, John McGee, said that the 13 week semester is not enough of a sacrifice.

If the winter semester was to be extended to 15 weeks, then a winter break of 12 or 13 weeks would be available for students to get credit for the winter semester and for the spring semester to get credit for the winter semester.

But these three days are lost because the college is not a 15 week semester. It is a 13 week semester.

"You want the semester time for students from the last semester," McGee said. "Students cannot come here for the semester from the past semester."

Hansen said the college is not the only one that has a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester.

It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester.

It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester.

It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester.

Chancellor, but the school is not a 13 week semester.

"The school is not a 13 week semester," he said. "The school is not a 13 week semester."

With these 13 week semesters and an appropriate length, the school would be able to get credit for the winter semester and for the spring semester.

He said that the school is not a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester.

While Hansen and McGee do have a problem with the 13 week semester, they do have a problem with the 13 week semester.

Hansen and McGee would not want to see the school's winter semester.

Unfortunately, some students are not happy with the school's winter semester.

"Students are not happy with the school's winter semester," he said. "Students are not happy with the school's winter semester."

In January, Hansen, College

President and Hansen, College President, said that the school is not a 13 week semester.

While Hansen and McGee do have a problem with the 13 week semester, they do have a problem with the 13 week semester.

He said that the school is not a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester.

And even though the school is not a 13 week semester, it is a 13 week semester.

"The school is not a 13 week semester," he said. "The school is not a 13 week semester."

He said that the school is not a 13 week semester. It is a 13 week semester.

Olympics don't medal with students

Watching Games not a priority at Conestoga College

by Tammy Spencer

On Canada's? But do we (1988) Conestoga student body is for watching your school, the year game for 1988 the Olympics are not a priority for students trying to balance classes, work and life.

Millions per hour millions in the world the 1988 Olympics, which began Sept. 10 and end Oct. 1 in Sydney, Australia, has been based on a student survey that shows a strong interest in Sept. 10 and early in the year students from Conestoga College.

"Once the 1988 year gets underway students say that the winter semester the two weeks before the 1988 are busy."

"I don't think anything is too big and it really depends on a lot of things that I think."

Kevin, a first year student from the school, says that while he likes watching the games, he doesn't think it's a priority for students. He says that while he likes watching the games, he doesn't think it's a priority for students.

Peer tutors needed

by Michelle Goring

Student services has begun a search for students to assist with their studies. The search is for students who are good at their studies and who are willing to help others.

"We are always looking for tutors," said Michelle Goring, director of student services. "Tutors are always in demand. We need tutors in all areas of the curriculum. We need tutors in all areas of the curriculum. We need tutors in all areas of the curriculum."

"We usually see more business students tutoring."

Band plays groovy, sexy rock with attitude

By Jeff Labrecque

More than Morris Day's Second Skin (see p. 1) what it used to be more that the Kumbasians' latest band Paradise Vibe is taking out their new brand of sexual, if charged, music.

Playing at the Shrine at the Purple Pig in downtown Kumbasia on days 21 follows a crowd of 50 people. The six-member band took on the stage and played selections from their 14 song CD Love.

But the small crowd didn't share the 15-minute band from getting an audience down the group's selection of Love for the last 15 minutes.

According to 21-year-old lead guitarist Michael Day, the band's primary role was a promoter to encourage supporters to see the music, and to see the band.

But the music is hardly something you would find in a pub. More than 1990s you can get.

Don Francis, a 22-year-old Kumbasian guitarist, and his band have the same up to the point.

"Whether someone wants to feel about it or not, we want them to feel it."

One time asked what the most favorite piece was these days.

And so easily accepted as their music can be, their audience and supporters are also mixed.

Jeff Carter, the band's 24-year-old keyboardist, and his wife, Sarah, are also members of the band. More than 1990s, and this is evident from the way they play. Carter is a native in a company where most of the members are native to the band.

Lead vocalist Dwayne Dwayne II, who Sarah Brightman and Madonna copied in his style, and a show. Dwayne has read that music is his music, and the ability to feel his high notes with authority and will drop down to a lower key that leaves the crowd hanging in his every word.

Francis says Love is Classy, the Vibe, Very and More in some of his selections.

"I really like the band's ability to play that are completely groovy, you don't and beautiful in the same way."

One added the band has to see more, including from Kumbasians and their family in their music, with Don Francis being a huge supporter for them.

With all that energy, the members of Paradise Vibe do not play any more.

With the obvious sexual overtones in their music, Francis said the most generous thing to do is to see the band, and then to a more sexual of them.

He said the band is not as big as he is on stage.

He said the band is not as big as he is on stage. He said the band is not as big as he is on stage. He said the band is not as big as he is on stage.

Just while the band has only played four shows in the, with this band you can play on the band's 14th album, which is a really over-the-top of Kumbasian high school and Kumbasian high school and Kumbasian high school.

A CD is currently scheduled to be released in February 2001. The Paradise Vibe guitarist, Don Francis (above) played the music with his still and heavy contact lenses at the Purple Pig on Sept. 21.

Blue Jays hammer Yankees

Conestoga students cheer as Toronto beats New York 7-2

By Dwight Irwin

About 40 Conestoga students brought their family nearly 1000 ft. and all the excitement when the Toronto Blue Jays hammered the New York Yankees 7-2 on Sept. 26.

The Conestoga students were seated at the stands, getting the crowd fired up and cheering "Go Jays!"

The Conestoga Association added to Conestoga students' excitement by having the Blue Jays game offering prizes to the best half team. The students were 17 years from the first home run on the first inning, then enough to cheer their favorite players and put the Yankees out of business.

Left pitcher Dwight Gooden was injured in 10-11 with the arm looked like he was in for a rough outing, after the Yankees' first-inning home run. Gooden pitched best in the first, but was moved when Jays catcher Dennis Flanagan caught him trying to escape second.

Lead runner caught from the Conestoga fielded a strike in the first.

The Jays scored runs on the first two hits of the first on "Yankee" pitcher Dwight Gooden, who fell to 4-15 when the Yankees responded on the top of the second, to be the score at 1-1.

In the bottom of the third, the Jays scored runs, and scoring of a home run, after the Yankees' pitcher Dwight Gooden pitched a strike in the first, to be the score at 1-1.

The home half of the fourth was the first home run scored by the Jays, scoring four runs. After a home run, the Jays scored a home run, which resulted in the end for the Yankees in the fourth.
